Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies

BULLETIN No. 3

Gird your loins for the great Trail Ride and the Pow-Wow—the thrill of your life. Three days' cross-country ride through the most spectacular area of the Canadian Rockies, hitherto visited only by a few hunters and now for the first time made easily accessible by a new trail. Forty-five miles in all, of which twenty miles over prairie Alps, seven thousand feet above the sea, carpeted with white heather and immortelles, and framed in a magnificent setting of lofty precipices, icefields, glaciers, and waterfalls, with a panorama of three hundred miles of snow-clad peaks.

First Night.—Tent camp on the Goodsir Plateau, facing the cliff, which rises sheer six thousand five hundred feet above its valley.

Second Night.—Tent camp on the shores of Lake O'Hara, rivalling Lake Louise in its colour, yet of a wilder beauty.

Third Night.—Tipi Camp beside Lake Wapta, with Sun Dance Lodge for the Pow-Wow.

Guides and horses furnished by the Rocky Mountain Guides Association.

Sing-Song each night in Camp.

All arrangements have now been completed. The official ride will start from Marble Canyon, on the Banff-Windermere Road, at 9 a.m. on the morning of August 8th.

First Day, August 8th.—Motor cars will convey riders from Banff and Lake Louise early in the morning to the point of departure, where the guides and horses will be in waiting. Visit to Vermilion Paint Pots. Some may wish to stay at Storm Mount Bungalow Camp or Marble Canyon Camp, but must make reservations direct with the managers of these Camps.

Trail up Tumbling Creek, past Tumbling Glacier. Lunch on the Wolverine Plateau (see illustration). Ride along the Wolverine Plateau with the Wolverine Palisades, Mount Helmet and the Washmawapta Icefield and Waterfalls on the left, the panorama including the Ten Peaks

Miss Anna Frances Harper, whose early death we regret to announce on the right. Camp on the Goodsir Plateau. (See illustration.) Sing-Song.

Second Day, August 9th.—Ride down to Goodsir Creek and up McArthur Creek. Visit Lake McArthur and Camp at Lake O'Hara in the Camp kindly placed at our service by the Alpine Club of Canada, which will close its own annual meeting on the 8th. Sing-Song.

Third Day, August 10th.—Ride to Wapta. Pow-Wow, Sing-Song and Dance at Tipi Camp.

At Lake O'Hara and Wapta there may be a few bungalows available at the Bungalow Camps located there. Any such space will be reserved exclusively for lady riders.

Inclusive charge, including tents, food, horses, guides and motor car fare from Banff or Lake Louise, $50.00 per head, payable in advance.

Each rider must bring either a sleeping bag or two warm blankets. A change of underwear, a warm coat or makinaw for the camp fire, towel and toilet articles are all that are necessary, and can be rolled in sleeping bag or blankets. No grips accepted. There will be only one pack horse for three riders, so as to save expense and time in packing. If you are not prepared to rough it, don't come to the ride.

Another party is being organized for the Lake Windermere contingent, which will motor to Kootenay Crossing, on the Banff-Windermere Road, and ride from there up the Kootenay Valley, up the Wolverine Pass, joining the Marble Canyon party on the Wolverine Plateau. This will be a ride of five days (or six, if fishing is desired). Walter Nixon, who is outfitting this party, is quoting a rate of ten ($10.00) dollars a day per head, exclusive of the motor charge, which is not yet fixed, but will be kept to the lowest possible.

The Rocky Mountain Guides Association is supplying guides and horses on condition that they are released for regular business on arrival at Wapta. Any arrangements for further use of horses and guides must be made direct with the individual guides and outfitters. As this will be the height of the season, those planning longer trips should make arrangements as early as possible, as the indications are that the tourist season this year in the Canadian Rockies will be the busiest on record.

Parties for the following long distance rides are being organized, of which the Secretary has received notice:—

1. Banff to Assiniboine, August 12th to August 18th. Rates $10.00 per day, including ponies, food and camp bedding.

Address, A. O. Wheeler, Banff.

2. Wapta to Lake Windermere, probably via Ice River and the Kootenay Valley. Rates $10.00 per day.

Address Walter Nixon, Invermere, B.C.

3. Field to Jasper—25-day trip, starting after the Pow-Wow—$250.00 for the trip. Riders must bring their own sleeping bags. Early reservations necessary.

Apply Secretary, Brewster Transport Company, Banff.

Please advise the Secretary as early as possible if you intend to participate in the Official Trail Ride.

HOW THE TRAILS WERE MADE

(A Kootenay Indian Legend)

The animals try who is to be the Sun. When Raven acts as the Sun it is dark. When Chicken Hawk tries, it is hot. He tells everything he sees. When he returns they tell him he is too hot and too talkative. Doe wife of Lynx has two children, who arrive and try in their turn. When the first goes along the sky it is comfortable and when the sun sets it is cool. He is selected as Sun. The younger brother is selected to act as the Moon. Coyote is envious and shoots the Sun at sunrise. His arrow catches fire, the earth begins to burn, and he saves himself by lying down on a trail. For this reason trails do not burn.

IN MEMORIAM

It is with great regret and deep sympathy for the Rev. E. S. Harper and Mrs. Harper, of Brooklyn, New York, that we record the death of their daughter, one of our youngest Trail Riders—Miss Anna Frances Harper (bronze brooch)—whose portrait is reproduced on page 2 of this Bulletin.

NEWS ABOUT TRAIL RIDERS

*Capt. A. H. MacCarthy
Leader of the Mount Logan Expedition*

Dr. J. Monroe Thorington sends the Secretary a reprint from an article he wrote for the "Alpine Journal," of November, 1924, entitled "The Mountains of the Whirlpool," giving a history of the Athabaska Pass, its early travellers, the mountains adjacent thereto, and Dr. Thorington's own expedition of 1924. Illustrated with portraits of early explorers, old engravings and new photographs, this makes a most valuable contribution to the literature of the Canadian Rockies.

Byron Harmon spent seventy days last Fall on an expedition to the Columbia Icefield, with Lewis R. Freeman, who has told the story in the "National Geographic Magazine" for April. Byron Harmon's photographs in this issue are as fine as anything he has done—and that means something, as his reputation as a photographer of Alpine scenery in the Canadian Rockies is worldwide. He also made a moving picture of the Expedition, which has been purchased by the Fox Films for educational purposes.

Carl Rungius, who carried off another prize at the Annual Exhibition of the National Academy of Design this year, exhibited six etchings of big game subjects in New York this winter, which attracted much attention. Roger B. Whitman wrote of Carl Rungius in "Country Life":

"It is not the hunting alone that attracts him, although his collection of horns and heads attests his skill, but its relation to his art. Carl Rungius is known as our foremost painter of wild animals, and has reached that point through his opportunities to observe and to record phases of animal life that lie beyond the ken of most of us. Combining as he does the knowledge and insight of the naturalist with the observation and sympathy of the artist, his paintings, not only of wild life but of landscapes and scenes of the ranch and the trail, have gained for him a recognition that each year becomes more fully established.

"To the sportsman, the lover of nature, Rungius's paintings can be lived with to an unusual degree. It is to one of them of a bull moose that Roosevelt refers in his autobiography as 'As spirited an animal painting as I have ever seen.'"

Chief Buffalo Child Long lance addressed several clubs in Canada and the United States during the winter on the subject of the Indian Races of Canada. He has been invited to read a paper at the meeting of the British Association at Southampton, England, this year.

Colonel Phil. A. Moore has lectured in the United States extensively this winter, under the auspices of the Bureau of Commercial Economics, Washington, D.C., using the moving picture which was made of the official trail ride and Pow-Wow at Yoho last summer.

The Smithsonian Institution is now printing the de luxe edition of "North American Wild Flowers," by Mary Vaux Walcott, with colour reproductions of the paintings which represent her life-work. Five hundred dollars is the price of a subscription, and, from all accounts, it is none too much. The following is taken from the Foreword to the first volume:—

WILD flowers were a joy and inspiration in the happy days of childhood when my mother taught me to observe and sketch them under the direction of a skilled artist. Years passed before a botanical friend at Glacier, British Columbia, asked me to portray a rare and perishable Alpine flower so as to preserve its beauty, color and graceful outline as a living thing. Other rare specimens were painted that season and succeeding seasons, until the "living flowers that skirt the eternal frost" in the wild flower gardens of the Canadian Rockies were transferred in color and form to the East, where sketches of the native woodland and meadow blossoms soon began to join them.

During the past ten years from three to four months have been spent each season on the trail in the Canadian Rockies where Dr. Walcott was carrying on geological explorations, covering in all more than five thousand miles in distance. This afforded a wonderful opportunity for intimate study of the flora, the aim being to collect and paint the finest specimens obtainable, and to depict the natural grace and beauty of the plant without conventional design. Many of the Western sketches were made under trying conditions. Often, on a mountain side or high pass, a fire was necessary to warm stiffened fingers and body. In camp, the diffused light of the white tent was a great handicap, and considerable ingenuity was required to obtain a proper combination of light and shade. The paint box and pads always found safe conveyance on the back of the saddle, except in unusual storms of rain or snow, and many times while waiting for the pack train to be made ready, a sketch was begun or completed. The short lives of the blooming plants definitely limit the number of sketches that can be made during a single field season, for many hours of work are necessary to finish a single sketch, and wild flowers wither quickly. A sharp frost in July or early August will ruin them, or an unusually warm, dry season or a cold, wet one will prevent flowering or kill the blossoms that have matured. For these reasons desirable specimens of many of the fragile Alpine flowers are difficult to secure, and in some instances were seen in perfection but two or three times during the many seasons on the trail. The limited habitat of others made it necessary to take long rides and climb high above the timber line to procure them, and frequently no trails were available. Our faithful, sure-footed, perfectly trained mountain ponies were a large factor in our success.

Captain A. H. MacCarthy, Vice-President of the Trail Riders, is leader of the Canadian Alpine Club's Expedition which will endeavor to climb Mount Logan, the highest mountain in Canada. Lt.-Col. W. W. Foster, D.S.O., President of the Trail Riders, is Chairman of the Expedition Committee, which includes Arthur O. Wheeler. Belmore Browne is one of the technical advisers. In an account of the plans for the Expedition, Lukin Johnston writes in the "Edmonton Journal":—

"Long and carefully the directors of the Canadian Alpine Club deliberated before they settled on the leader and members of the hazardous expedition. Finally, Capt. A. H. MacCarthy, formerly an officer of the United States Navy, and now a rancher on a large scale in the Windermere Valley of British Columbia, was offered the leadership. Capt. MacCarthy, besides possessing essential qualities of leadership, is a resourceful and intrepid mountaineer. His greatest feat was the conquest of Mount Robson, monarch of the Canadian Rockies, in 1913, in company with Lt.-Col. W. W. Foster (who is also a member of the Logan expedition) and Konrad Kain, the famous guide.

"Throwing himself heart and soul into the plans for the conquest of Logan, Capt. MacCarthy made a preliminary reconnaissance in 1924, and succeeded in reaching a point within 35 miles of the mighty peak. With two Canadian packers, residents of the tiny hamlet of McCarthy, Alaska—which, by the way, is not named after Capt. MacCarthy—he attained an altitude of 10,200 feet within 16 miles of the base of the final dome.

"In the forty-five days these three spent on that reconnaissance trip they tramped 522 miles, and in their climbs and descents over ridges, across moraines, vast ice-fields and giant crevasses, made a total elevation of more than twenty-five times the height of Logan's highest peak above the level of their base camp at 7,750 feet. Storm and fog drove them back time and again and convinced them that only by the most careful planning and meticulous attention to detail could the peak be conquered. Data was gathered on the journey which made it certain that the only period when there was any likelihood of the weather being free enough from

HOW TO SLEEP WELL

Good bedding is important because nothing takes more from endurance and enjoyment than loss of sleep.

Where weight is an object, nothing surpasses a sleeping-bag. The best have an outer bag of canvas, tanalite or balloon silk, with two inner bags of eider-down or other good blanket or quilting. According to the weather, the sleeper has more of the coverings over him to keep warm or beneath him for softness.

Any blankets or quilts can be made into sleeping-bags, lacking the water- and wind-proof cover, by folding them lengthwise and sewing or fastening with horse-blanket safety pins.

Without any such device, and the bedding insufficient, the greatest warmth can be had by lying down and drawing the blankets over you as a coverlet; then lifting the legs without bending at knee and tucking the covering smoothly beneath them from either side, also folding far end under the feet; then lifting hips and tucking in similarly; and finally same at the shoulders, so that the edges are overlapped and bound smoothly for the full length beneath you.

Two light blankets are warmer than one heavy one. Better than blankets are quilts of eiderdown or wool, with extra covering of denim or still more weather-proof material.

A 7 by 7 10-oz. canvas, folded, makes a good groundcloth and extra cover, while also useful as a pack-cover when travelling or for rain-shelter.

For auto and pack-horse trips, although too heavy for hiking, are many practical folding cots and the ever-popular pneumatic mattress. Brush beds are easily made from feathery coniferous boughs. Other boughs are useless. Use none bigger at butt than your thumb, and these only well covered by smaller tips. Collect good supply first. If possible, confine entire bed by 4- to 6-inch logs pegged in place before brush laying is begun and with foot leg resting on the side-logs. Lay largest boughs in courses with "bow" up, overlapping so butts are towards foot of bed and, except at very foot, covered by tops of other courses. Keep pushing in smaller boughs same way; always lengthwise of bed, "bowed up," and butts thrust down and covered by tops. Finally sift smallest evenly over the whole. Try bed and build up weak spots.

If you have to sleep directly on the ground, choose a level place (so you won't slide), free of roots, and scoop hip and shoulder holes.

WORD FROM THE MOCCASIN TRAIL

At the request of many of our members we are printing here the poem specially written for the Trail Riders and read at the Pow-Wow in the Yoho Valley last July.

From the land of the Abenakis—
The rivers and hills of the East—
An Indian spirit sends greeting
To the great Trail Riders' feast.

A foot and alone with peril
We went with arrow and bow,
Mounted, unarmed and jostling,
In safety at ease you go.

Little enough was our learning,
Small was our craft and skill,
But we saw the feet of the morning
Go by—and our hearts were still.

We shaped the canoe and the paddle,
We fashioned the snowshoe frame,
And the Great Spirit was with us,
As we kindled the council flame.

You have circled the earth with your knowledge,
Your magic is more and more,
Yet must you heed our wisdom—
The truth of the wilderness lore.

You ride to make good our beginning,
Our trails to keep clear and extend,
Guarding the lodge and the campfire
In peace at sundown's end.

So, over all we are tribesmen,
By the law that does not swerve—
At home in the tent of the open,
On call through the Great Reserve.

We lift you the friendly signal,
We send you our sign on the air,
Look East for our smoke at evening,
And say, "Our brothers are there."

May no foot want for a stirrup,
No prayer nor adventure fail,
And the Master Guide go with you,
Is the word from the Moccasin Trail.

fog and storm to permit the final ascent was between May 15th and June 20th."

The main party will sail for the North on May 2nd, and Captain MacCarthy hopes to make his report at the Annual Camp of the Alpine Club of Canada at Lake O'Hara. He also hopes to be present at part of the Official Trail Ride and at the Pow-Wow at Wapta on August 10th.

Extracts from the Trail Riders' Song Sheet

Practise these for the Official Trail Ride and Pow Wow

I AM A TRAIL RIDER

(Tune—I Want To Be Happy—from "No-No-Nanette")

James:

I'm a very ordinary cuss,
Never rode upon a motor bus,
Never rode a trolley but I thought it was a silly thing to do.
When there is a pony to be got,
You can bet you'll find me on the spot,
Sitting on the saddle that was meant for either me or you.

Refrain:

I am a Trail Rider,
You are a Trail Rider,
She is a Trail Rider too!—
Ambling along
With a jest and a song
There was never a jollier crew!
Nothing to worry or make us feel blue,
Just that the days are too few!
I am a Trail Rider,
You are a Trail Rider,
She is a Trail Rider too!

Nanette:

I'm a very ordinary Girl,
Never had a maid my hair to curl,
Never used a powderpuff because it seemed a silly thing to do.
For I find a pony curls my hair
When I gallop in the mountain air,
Bringing all the rosy cheeks I need to keep my lover true.

Refrain:

As above.

THE TRAILS OF THE ROCKIES

(Tune—The Bells of St. Mary's)

The Trails of the Rockies, whatever betide,
Through meadow and forest the Riders shall ride;
Shall follow the blaze and the rivers shall ford,
Shall clamber the passes in merry accord.

CHORUS

The Trails of the Rockies, the broad and the slender,
The high trails, the low trails, in sunshine and rain,
They lead through the wonder of mountainous splendour,
The glory of our Canada, again and again.

And deep in the Rockies our camp we shall pitch,
A tent for our palace, in happiness rich,
And there round the fire in a jovial ring
Our tales we shall tell and our songs we shall sing.

The Trails of the Rockies—etc.

THERE'S A LONG, LONG TRAIL

(Trail Rider's Version)

There's a long, long trail a-winding
Into the land of my dreams,
Where I hear mosquitoes singing
And the camp-fire gleams,
There's a long, long night of dozing
Until the day breaks anew,
And I start again a-riding
Down that long, long trail with you.

ON THE GOOD OLD ROCKY TRAILS

(Tune—In the Good Old Summer Time)

On the good old Rocky trails,
On the good old Rocky trails,
Riding with a pretty girl, and
Telling her such tales!
You hold her hand and she holds yours
With a love that never fails,
Until your pony bucks you off
On the good old Rocky trails.

ONE WARM SWEET GLOW

(Tune—Love's Old Sweet Song)

Once in the dear dead days beyond recall
When o'er the camp the night began to fall,
And on the fire the logs were burning low,
Over our hearts there came a warm, sweet glow;
And in the tent where fell the flickering gleam
Softly there rose into our thoughts a dream:

Just a little night cap
When the fire is low,
All the dishes washed up
And to bed we go,
Though our limbs are weary,
Sore from thigh to toe,
Still a little night cap,
Gives one sweet glow,
Gives one warm, sweet glow.

And when to-night we dream that dream of yore
Down in our shins it may not feel so sore.
Knees may be shaky, weary from the trails,
Still we can dream the cure that seldom fails,
So in the night when firelight shadows fall
This may be found the sweetest dream of all.
Just a little night cap—etc.
